

The Capita Adventure Challenge 2008

On Saturday 26 April, a glorious spring day saw eighty two teams descend on the grounds of Kelmarsh Hall in Northamptonshire to compete in the third annual Capita Challenge.

The theme of this year's event was Mission Impossible, and many of the games and activities were based around the world of the secret agent. There was code breaking and problem solving, as well as a chance to pit your wits against the Bond-esque house casino. On top of these mental challenges teams were required to kayak across a treacherous lake, test their marksmanship skills at the shooting range, brave a hair raising ride in a land rover, and generally charge back and forth across the Kelmarsh grounds attempting to solve the elusive 'Mission Impossible'.

Rachel Gascoigne, Corporate Account Manager at Macmillan said "On behalf of everyone at Macmillan, I would like to say a huge thank you to all those involved in this year's Challenge. £67,000 really is a fantastic sum of money and we're incredibly grateful. We're aiming to raise £1million over the two year partnership with Capita and we couldn't have wished for a better start. The money will go towards providing medical, practical, financial and emotional support to people with cancer, their families, their carers and their communities. Thank you so much."

Everyone had a great day and the event was a huge success, generating over £67,000 for our charity partners Macmillan Cancer Support and in the process becoming our most successful fundraiser ever.
